his statements to be correct. Joseph Rodgers was arrested this morning by the Fourth Ward police, about three o'clock, lying drunk on the pavement. Last night be took a room at the Arlington House, corner of the street and Ponnsylvania avenue, and went to the theater. When he returned he was drunk, and spoke disrespectfully of the President and lightly of his sad death. Mr. Moore, in charge of the house, would not let him have a room, and he went away and was found by the police. He says he is employed at Giesboro, and formerly served in the 2d D. C. reg-ment. Justi . Boswell dismissed the suspicion and fined him $5 50.

Addison McKir rey was arrested by the 4th Ward police near the Metropolitan Hotel, for using treasonable language and behaving in a very disorderly manner. He says his home is Boston, but he is now stopping at Fairfax Court House, and denied the possibility of his using treasonable language, even if drunk. Justice Boswell fined him $5.50 for being drunk and disorderly.

TORCH LIGHT PROCESSION -The torch light procession of the arsenal employees last evening in celebration of the raising of the national flag again over Fort Sumter was a very fine affair. The procession was composed of about two thousand persons, including two companies of the 9th regiment Veteran Rese ves, under Captains West and Knower, and preceded by a fine band, attracted great atten-Nearly every man bore a national flag, and at intervals through the line were transparencies bearing appropriate inscriptions. which, with the display of Chinese lanters and other luminaries, presented a sple idid appearance. The procession started from the arsenal at 7 o'clock, and, reaching the Avenue, proceeded to the Presidential Mansion, and from thence to the residence of Secretary Stanton, were they were addressed by the Secretary, as also by General J. D. Foster, of Sumter renown. The Secretary's speech was received with tumultons appliance, and, at its close, in accordance with his suggestion, cheers were given for the President and the irmy and navy. These were followed by hearty cheers for the Secretary, after which the procession took up its line of march and proceeded to the residence of Brigadier General Ramsay, on F street, betweed 19th and 20th.

Brigadier General Ramsay, late Chief of Ordnance, was then introduced to the processlon by John S. Dudley, Esq., Master Armorer at the Arsenal, when General Ramsay remarked, in substance, as follows: I feel very much flattered, my friends, that you should thus remember me on this glorious day, the day on which the old flag is hoisted over Fort Sumter. Four years ago, to-day, it was lowered from its proud position. On that day our noble band of patriots were compelled by overwhelming numbers to surrender the fort, and to-day it was restored, even to the flagstaff, where it shall wave with its stars and stripes forever. You, my friends, have been instrumental in bringing this rebellion to a close, and you deserve much credit for the importance assistance you have rendered. No arsenal has done better than the one you represent—the Washington Arsenal. I am heartily glad to greet you, the loyal citizens of Washington, on this glorious occasion. As I am unwell, I hope you will excuse me from saying anything more, and I will bid you Tarewell. Assistant Armorer Pudley also made a short speech, followed by Lieut Stockston, Com-mander of the Arsenal, and others; after which the members of the procession returned

ARRESTED .- Oscar Hough, of the rebel army, was arrested last pight at his mother's restdence, on Pennsylvania avenue, by a military detective, and committed to the Old Capitol, by order of the Secretary of War. Oscar, when arrested, appeared to be taken by surprise, and produced an oath of allegiance purporting to have been administered to him in Philadelphia by Gen. Cadwallader, but finally admitted that he was simply home on a short furlough. It is reported that there are several serious charges against Hough, one of which is cruelty to Union prisoners at Richmond, UTTERING DISLOYAL S. STIMENTS .- Malcomb Wallingsford, who recently returned to this city from Richmond, where he went at the breaking out of the rebellion, was arrested on Thursday by a military detective for uttering disloyal sentiments upon the streets, after having taken the oath of allegiance. Malcomb was taken to Col. Ingraham's office, where he he begged to be let off, and upon promise of future good behavior was dismissed.

while he was post quartermaster there.
